Do We Need A Hospital?

This question will shortly be put to the ratepayers of the district which comprises the Bassano Municipal Hospital District.

The proposed scheme which has been advertised for the last three weeks must command itself to the ratepayers for its completeness and its economy.

The provisional trustees have prepared a scheme which will, if endorsed by the ratepayers, give our district an equipment equal to any in the Province.

Careful study of the scheme will reveal to every farmer and business the fact that merely as an insurance against accident or sickness of his help, his family or himself, it is a splendid investment.

From every point of view, in fact, material or philanthropic, or purely selfish, the scheme will command itself to every ratepayer.

We will not insult our reader's intelligence by discussing the question of the necessity of the hospital for there is only one truthful reply to such a question and we doubt very much if there will be one vote cast honestly and conscientiously against the proposed scheme, for our experience of the past year has surely taught us that a hospital is needed probably above every other need of the district.

Weekly Holiday In Sight

The meeting held on Tuesday to discuss the pros and cons of the weekly holiday scheme, was successful in obtaining the (almost) unanimous expression of opinion that the holiday was necessary and would eventually prove of benefit.

U.F.A. Social

The Bassano U.F.A., held its regular meeting on Saturday, June 7th, when an unusually interesting session was supplemented by the presence of the members of the newly formed W.U.F.A.

The president and secretary were both absent, the former on account of a mechanical breakdown and the latter through sickness. The members while congratulating the former, passed a vote of condolence with the latter in his sickness and forwarded to him their heartfelt wishes for a speedy recovery.

The delegates to the U.E.A. Convention reported upon the proceedings there, all of which has appeared in the daily press.

The ladies organization was completed as follows: President, Mrs. O. Daehler; Vice-President, Mrs. N. T. Davis; Secretary, Mrs. R. Ingles.

After the business meeting concluded the members held a very enjoyable social with refreshments kindly supplied by the ladies. Several splendid musical numbers were rendered by the following artists: Mrs. Culverson, piano-forte solo; Songs Mrs. Davis, R. P. Robinson and Oscar Daehler. Mrs. Ingles, accompanist.

Nothing definite was arranged, however, but a committee was appointed to interview the business men and report to a further meeting which was called for Friday, the thirteenth June.

The date sounds somewhat unlucky but a little get-together-ness will shake the jinx out of even a combination like Friday and thirteen, to say nothing of putting over a really progressive movement.

ADDRESSE. W. Gillett Co. Ltd.
TORONTO, CANADAEDITORIAL*Home Life on the Farm

In solving the problem, now almost universally recognized, of checking the progress of the home and giving more to the cities, the farmer keeps them on the land, the farm home must play by far the most important part. Even in the cities the right kind of a home is the greatest restorative in keeping the people from drifting to far away places and pastures new. It is the most powerful of all influences, and nowhere will the influence of a good and comfortable home, and the right kind of home, be more effective, found more power than on the farms.

In a new country like Western Canada, which is just emerging from the crudeness of the pioneer stage, it is inevitable and altogether natural that the early settlers should be content with the farm home should be small and lacking in those many little comforts and attractive features which appeal so strongly to youth. It was necessary that the farm should first be broken, and material equipment secured, a water supply made available, some horses and livestock gathered together, and the necessary buildings provided for their care. Usually, therefore, the farm family home to eat and sleep. It possessed few comforts and was the reverse of attractive, and, isolated, many instances of the early settlers' few neighbors with a resultant great loneliness. It is small wonder that it failed so frequently to hold the boys and girls when they reached their later teens and approached young manhood and womanhood.

Too frequently, perhaps, even after the farm had reached a certain stage of development, and the farmer was beginning to make headway in a material sense, he had become so absorbed in his farm operations that all his available time and energy were devoted to buying more machinery, more livestock, more land, and erecting larger and better farm buildings, while the home and its equipment was overlooked and neglected. This, of course, the economist was bound to see, and the economist was bound to see, that the wife and mother and the growing children that father seemed to think only of the farm itself and the things required by him to extend and improve his farm operations. It was not due to selfishness so much as it was due to the farmer's absorption and keenness in his farm.

Nevertheless, such a policy is a mistake from the farmer's own standpoint. The farmer's family is his best asset, and it is well worth the cost to reward, to his credit, to have splendid equipment in the way of farm machinery, great barns, well fenced land, and all labor-saving devices in his own work, while his family lives in a shack or inadequate cottage which is dwarfed into insignificance and shamed by these larger possessions.

The farm home should be made as speedily as possible the most attractive feature of the farm. The wife and mother should be supplied with those little labor-saving devices in the home which will reduce the amount of housework from mere drudgery into pleasure. She will thereby be enabled to give greater attention to her children, while the girls will grow up with that repugnance for farm life which is now so many farm-bred girls now feel.

A telephone should be installed and thus largely eliminate that feeling of isolation which is experienced when one circle link closely with friends and neighbors. A few good books, pictures, magazines and the drier newspaper will help to brighten the farm home while, if it is possible, a piano should be obtained which will provide the boys and girls with those pastimes at home which lead them to look longingly towards the cities in order to enjoy.

In a word, the farmer should not only have the opportunity to make his farm home attractive to his boys and girls in order to inspire and encourage them to remain on the land and follow what is admittedly the most independent and healthiest way of life in the farm. And in his effort to do this, the farm and farm life, attractive, he will soon discover by a little observation that France has lost in the East the benefits of the victory: she has obtained the prestige, which the French army had, and the prestige of the assault against the Balkans, the Turks and Austria-Hungary, and which preaged the German defeat, and earned for her name. Mr. Kersey speaks of the Rumanian victory as the "French failure" and the cry of a starving population to France for bread.

Condition of French Troops at Odessa*Naval Forces Are Enclosed as the Military

Paris, France.—A terrible indictment is brought against those responsible for the conduct of operations in the Black Sea. In its report the French army is concerned by Gustave de Kerguetec, deputy, and naval reporter charged with the mission to inquire into the position of the eastern military and naval forces by the budgetary committee.

A report of observation, he declares, the Armée d'Orient no longer exists, and in an article which the Matin publishes he describes the condition in Odessa and in the camp of Tauris, Itala and Salonica. Two regiments, he says, would have sufficed to save the Crimea and to keep control of the Black Sea.

He adds that the naval forces are not in condition to fight, and that crews being lacking, demobilization orders could not be obeyed owing to the fact that whatever the government may imagine, ships cannot be maintained without men.

The result of the lack of organization, concludes naval reporter, is that France has lost in the East the benefits of the victory: she has obtained the prestige, which the French army had, and the prestige of the assault against the Balkans, the Turks and Austria-Hungary, and which preaged the German defeat, and earned for her name. Mr. Kersey speaks of the Rumanian victory as the "French failure" and the cry of a starving population to France for bread.

Boon to West*New Hudson Bay Route Would Ease Dual Haul

Ottawa—Mr. F. E. Bowden, chief engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, who has had experience of the Hudson Bay and Arctic routes, has recommended that a special committee of the senate, which is making a general inquiry into the possibilities of that region. He said it was possible that a whole fleet of steamers could be added to the navigation by establishing a route to navigation by wireless and aircraft would greatly assist vessels in keeping clear of ice floes.

Later, however, were almost precluded from using the Hudson Bay route to the north of the Arctic region, and, to ice, and from the point of view of the facilities at Port Nelson, he would only recommend that vessels of 7,000 tons carrying capacity should be placed on that route.

Larger vessels could not be accommodated in the harbor.

He was unable to say definitely whether the rate on grain across the Arctic, excepting the Hudson Bay route, was too problematical, and also it would be utterly impossible to get 10,000 or 150 vessels on the route until the government had thoroughly demonstrated its feasibility.

Private owners, however, he pointed out the value of the short haul to Hudson Bay by rail from the western provinces as far as animals were concerned. The great loss of animals on the rail would be avoided, and it had been found that the loss on vessels in the weight of animals was negligible.

Girls Accused of Making Tri-Color Rosettes Executed

Vienna—Many persons accused of being counter-revolutionaries are being executed in Budapest by the Hungarian communists, according to documents here. The victims usually are shot in front of the Hungarian parliament house in the day time or in the high school yard in the Marcal street at night.

Several girls who were accused of making tri-color rosettes for the counter-revolutionaries, were executed.

The presiding judge of the revolutionary tribunal, which orders the execution of persons accused, is a former locksmith, aged 22 years.

Many men, women and girls of the better classes have been found on the shores of islands in the Danube below the city. It is reported here that were arrested in the residential quarter of the city, and were thrown into the Danube by Guards who were taking them to prison in Budapest.

High Praise For Canadians

Troops of Dominion Took the Lead in War, Germans Admit

The report of the operations of the Canadian military forces of Canada tabbed in the list of commons of Ottawa last week by Sir Edward Kempt, overseas minister of militia, contains 533 printed pages. It is a comprehensive history of the activities of the Canadian forces during the war, and it is a credit to the country as to the strength of the personnel of the various organizations, at the time of the signing of the armistice.

"It is welcome," says Sir Edward Kempt, in a preface to the report, "this opportunity of expressing the thanks of those who have served in all capacities to all capacities: my heartfelt appreciation of their magnificent achievement. Whenever a stern or difficult task was to be performed, wherever the fight was to be won, wherever the battle was to be fought, by their valor, patience, and skill upholding and increasing a renown which will endure for all time."

Further, I would express my thanks to those in charge of the administration and training of our forces, both in France and in England. By their efficiency and wholehearted devotion, the soldiers were made possible, and they have contributed to the world that the citizen soldier imbued with the spirit of heroism and self-denial could be the equal of those who had made war a life-long study."

The succeeding pages will tell in detail of the operations of the Canadian organization and record of the various divisions of the Canadian force are replete with information that makes the report practically a history of the war. A large portion of the report is devoted to a description of the various military operations in which the Canadian forces were engaged during the four years of conflict with accompanying maps and explanatory notes.

Dealing with the Canadians in the Royal Air Force, the reporters say, it will no doubt be a matter of surprise to many to hear that over 8,000 Canadians have held commissions in the air force. An interesting table is given showing comparative strength of the Imperial and Canadian Railway Construction Forces on the western front at the close of the various years of the war. While on December 31, 1914, the Canadian railway construction forces numbered 176, the situation had so changed on armistice day that Canadian construction troops numbering 14,877 were in the field while imperial troops of the same date numbered only 7,340.

The report also shows that on armistice day the total strength of the Canadian forestry corps was 31,447, including 13 companies of prisoners of war numbering 5,021. At the time the armistice was signed, over 70 per cent of the total timber used by the allied armies on the western front was supplied by the Canadian forestry corps.

The number of Canadian officers attached or seconded to the imperial troops or other forces outside the military forces of Canada was 1,281 at the date of the armistice. Of these 824 were seconded or attached to the Royal Air Force. Also on November 11, 1918, 360 officers were seconded to the war office for military service. "It is gratifying to record," says the report, "that since the overseas military forces of Canada first went into action, 1,000 have been awarded upwards of 17,000 medals and 120 awards, including 61 Victoria Crosses, 1,182 Military Crosses, 39 Distinguished Conduct Medals, and 6,610 Military Medals."

With regard to the overseas military forces of Canada for the health-restoring principles in Dr. Hamilton's "How to Live," the report states: "It is distinctly satisfactory, and this was largely due, to the efficient administration and discipline by commanding officers and to the spirit of corps which had been created and developed among all ranks of the Canadian forces."

Germans Using

Stolen Machinery

Belgian Engineers Buy Factories in Full Swing

The process of extracting from Germany the machinery she has stolen is an arduous one.

It is in the neighborhood of Cologne found four out of the eight machines removed from his works between Jan. 8, 1915, and Dec. 7, 1917, discovered incidentally that eight others had been taken to die in Germany, and know that four more are still in Belgium.

The whereabouts of the remaining sixty-four are unknown.

The observer reports that not only are the German factories full swing, but that they have been considerably enlarged during the war and show abundant signs of prosperity.

Especially owing to the machinery stolen by the Belgians and France, which was sold to him by the German Government for almost nothing.

What is particularly surprising is that the Germans have been keeping their own machinery for use after the war has been made impossible.

It is almost entirely with stolen machinery, which, having been working night and day with inferior oil, which alone is available, are now mostly only fit for the scrap heap.

Not only does one see the Germans working while similar Belgian and French factories are full of brand new machinery to be sold.

This state of things, coupled with the extreme difficulty, because of German members of tracing machinery or missing parts, and with the difficulty of finding a market in England, makes the Belgians, whose works are idle and whose workers are unemployed more than ever resent their not being allowed to have German substitutes in place of those German machines.

The engine experts suggest as the only solution that the Germans should themselves be obliged to produce all missing parts which are often hidden in obscure store house, each factory having its stolen machines come from, and for machines not found within three months and for machines unfit for work, and machines destroyed, repaired machines should be handed over to the Belgians.

Municipal Hail Insurance

Why You Should Insure In Your Own Company

The Hail Insurance Board, elected by the citizens, has now established headquarters in Calgary with offices at the Canada Life Building. The officials are farmers of many years standing, men who have had practical experience on the farm and with hail insurance. The adjustors are already been appointed and everything is in readiness for the season's operations. Those who are taking advantage of the act and insuring their crops with this Board will be assured of a square deal.

There are many reasons why the farmers of Alberta should consider the plan of Hail Insurance. Space will not permit to give all the details, but a few can be enumerated that will show the farmers that to be insured with this Board is a safe and reliable plan.

(1) Insure Your Own Company. It is endorsed by the U.F.A., by municipal conventions, and by the majority of the organized municipal districts of the Province.

(2) Insurance at Actual Cost. There are no commissions to be paid to agents and no profits to be taken by shareholders.

(3) Absolute Fair Adjustment. The staff of adjustors appointed by the Board are all farmers, every one of them having crops of their own that may be hauled out to morrow. They would be adjusted by some other farmer, considering it a favor to pay them to make anything but fair adjustments with those you are dealing with.

(4) Settlements Made Promptly. The Board has arranged for sufficient funds to take care of any amount of business, up to a maximum of $1,000,000.00 and can get as much more as may be required.

(5) A Cash Proposition on a Credit Basis. The rate is struck in September, but the premium is payable at any time until December 16th. The rate is unusually high to pay all losses in full, and the cost of administration, and to provide a small margin for the better carrying of the business.

Everything else being equal, it is a matter of dollars and cents to the farmers. The line companies, by their own books, have made big on the insurance business in the Province of Alberta. There is no reason why this money should not be retained in the pockets of the farmers, and at the same time they will receive the same protection as do the crops under the management of the insurance agent.

If any further information is desired, apply to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Municipal District, or to the Hall Insurance Branch, Letham.

The Tennis Courts are proving to be exceedingly popular with everybody in town and some fast players are developing among even the novices. This recreation is easily the "hot" community builder we have ever had.

The Hon. Chas. Mitchell was a busy visitor to the town and district for a few days last week. He doesn't seem to be the least concerned over the decision of the U.F.A. to run a candidate in the Bow Valley Riding of the next election.

The Calgary Herald says "Volunteer news-people in Winnipeg were subjected to considerable insult and abuse from children ranging in ages from 10 to 115 years." Recent events at the "Peg would lead one to imagine that people never grow up there, anywhere."

The members of the Agricultural Society are not to be recommended for the interest displayed in the monthly meetings of the Association. The majority are apparently under the impression that the Annual Fair is the one object of the Society; whereas it is only the end, to the success of which the monthly meetings are a powerful means. A little more enthusiasm boys or the Society will be worthless as far as its main object is concerned.
